QUESTIONS/CLARIFICATIONS

Question: Do all jobs require Prevailing Wage

Answer:

NO, not all jobs will be subjected to Prevailing Wage Laws, however to cover all jobs including the ones that could have prevailing wage, we must include it in the bid pricing.

Suggestion to all Vendors:

It may be more beneficial for all vendors to list a price with Prevailing Wage and a second price with-out Prevailing Wage. Another option for vendor pricing could be to include a notation in the bid that jobs requiring Prevailing Wage will have a premium cost (per hour) to be included on all equipment. For example: "When Prevailing Wage is Applicable a $10.00 premium will be added to all equipment's hourly wage, or a $25 premium to equipment's weekly wage", etc. The vendors are free to establish differences between the two costs to ensure a more competitive pricing or not to discern between pricing of prevailing wage and non prevailing wage jobs.
